

Gilligan's
THE DUKE

No. 8-9 DUKE STREET, DUBLIN 2
ESTD. 1822

PROUDLY SERVING DUBLIN

DRINKS MENU

Ideally situated close to the city centre on historic Duke Street, this old watering hole—which takes its title from the little street named after the 2nd Duke of Grafton—has been providing liquid refreshment and sustenance to the people of Dublin since 1822.

In the 1890s, the premises underwent a splendid Victorian renovation, leaving a façade that has been largely preserved to this day. Because of its cosmopolitan location beside the commercial and literary life pulse of the city, The Duke has enjoyed a distinguished association with the literary greats of the Irish Nation.

James Stephens, James Joyce, Oliver St. John Gogarty, and Arthur Griffith breezed in here regularly. In later years, the three great literary musketeers—Brendan Behan, Patrick Kavanagh, and Myles Na gCopaleen—experienced a transitory love affair with the premises. Nowadays, the Dublin Literary Pub Crawl keeps the tradition alive by starting from this establishment.
